Here’s a sneak peak of some of our most significant impact stats from 2017. We tried to make it easy and even entertaining to read, so sit back and have a look. We believe in radical transparency. Which is why each year we publish a quick-hit Impact Report around our brand. What’s working? What’s not? What significant steps have we taken? Where have we failed to live up to our promise? The way we see it, radical transparency is all part of the game. Zoom into the moonshots and discover how the digits evolved. Some items have changed - for the die-hards amongst you we’ve included a QR code (bottom page) that will link you to the entire and interactive ‘Life is Unfair’ Impact Report. There we explain to you the ins and outs of each moonshot. Enjoy!

LIMU REGION
OUR FAIRCHAIN PLAYGROUND

The Limu region is the homebase of the 350 FairChain Farmers, famous for the blockchain pilot of which they were part during the 2017 harvest. What started out as a small scale Call the Farmer project, is now turning into a major blockchain supported FairChain Farming program, of which Moyee is the launching customer. The farmers work hard to increase the yield and quality of their coffee and are learning-on-the-job to manage their own washing station. To what end? To reach a living income for their families! Check it all out fairchain.org

ADDIS ABABA
OUR FAIRCHAIN ROASTING HQ

80 billion? That’s the global dollar value of coffee in a year. 10:90? That’s the value share between producing and consuming coffee countries. In the past few years, an ideological and boisterous Dutch coffee company called Moyee to shift some of that value back to Ethiopia, one of the world’s great coffee regions. By building and operating a western-quality roaster and packaging line in the Ethiopian capital of Addis Ababa, Moyee has successfully created 300% more value for the local economy. Oh and there is a new kid on the block: FairChain partner Amor Perfecto is roasting in Colombia!
